The Cencaro Staff dedicates this annual to one who has done more than most realize. His main influence has been felt through the coordination of all evening classes. This position, beginning on a part-time basis, soon proved to be a full-time job. His vitality enabled several night classes to become day time programs. His contributions have made an impact upon our total community. Upon this, his "second" retirement, we the Staff wish to dedicate CENCARO 73 to Dr. Edwin A. Bell.

A blue-toned photograph of a snowy winter scene. The image shows a dense network of bare, dark tree branches reaching upwards against a bright, overexposed sky. In the upper left corner, there are dark, silhouetted evergreen branches. The overall atmosphere is cold and serene.

Clubs

The Phi Beta Lambda members worked hard this year to encourage and create more interest in worthy undertakings for the improvement of business and the community. The money making project this year was the selling of candy and calendars for the purpose of helping people in the community that were in need of financial aid. The club had plans and hopes of providing even more services to the school and community throughout the entire year.

The Glee Club of CCTI began as an organization for any people interested in creating in themselves a new singing experience which they will remember throughout the year. The club hopes that in the coming years it will contribute to CCTI's growing popularity. Many of the members had never participated in a formal vocal group and thus a tremendous amount of work was required. They planned to give at least one performance during the year and hoped to include much contemporary music as well as the more traditional choral music.

Les Soeurs

The first women's service organization on the CCTI campus was established this year with the formation of Les Soeurs, the Sisters. Uniting in a common goal - "Service to Others" this independent club is open to all female curriculum students. The membership is comprised of women who serve by giving their time and energy to others such as, local schools and making stuffed toys for underprivileged children. Pictured at the right is a collection box which was used in the making of these stuffed toys. The structure of the club remains fluid, with direction being given by the entire membership rather than thru formal officers. The club has been praised by several outside agencies for its contribution to the community and is another outstanding example of the quality young people attending CCTI.

The Establishment

Dr. J.F. Hockaday has been the President of CCTI since 1969 and during those four short years, the student body has more than doubled. Several new programs of study have been added, and four new buildings have been completed, are under construction, or are being planned for the future. Much of this growth can be attributed directly to his dedication and tireless energy as the chief administrative officer of the school.

Dr. Hockaday believes in and adheres to the "open door philosophy" that each student should be given an opportunity to better his educational lot and that a school such as ours must take a student where he is and help him progress within limits of his ability and desire. Dr. Hockaday's office is the epitome of this philosophy in that his door is always open to students who wish to talk with him and has encouraged students to do just that. We must consider ourselves fortunate to have a gentleman of his caliber and character as the President of Central Carolina Technical Institute.

Helping To Build A Finer Carolina

CP&L contributes to the area's growth in many ways. For example, when our industrial development specialists help a new industry find a site, it improves job opportunities and increases the local tax base. When our agricultural development engineers help a farmer produce more profitably, it increases the flow of money in an area. So helping build a Finer Carolina is more than just a nice-sounding phrase. It's our daily way of doing business.
